BACKGROUND

The proposed RC STEAM facility in Rosemount aims to engage youth in science, technology, engineering, art, and math through hands-on experiences involving remote-controlled airplanes, cars, and boats. This world-class training and racing center will provide a safe and educational environment that fosters creativity, teamwork, and problem-solving skills while integrating RC hobbies into school curriculums. Additionally, the facility will create job opportunities, stimulate the local economy, and encourage community involvement through partnerships with local schools and businesses. By offering workshops, events, and outreach programs, this initiative seeks to inspire the next generation of innovators in STEAM fields, while seeking funding and support from local and national companies.
